APRIL 2009

THE GRAVITY JOB
GRAVITY FESTIVAL TUESDAY, 2 JUNE 2009

Gravity has taken over the main night of the Auckland Photography Festival, renaming it Gravity Festival Tuesday.

Gravity Festival Tuesday offers everyone the opportunity to visit all nine photography exhibitions across town, between 6-9pm on Tuesday, 2 June. Thanks Gravity!

And if that sounds like a logistical nightmare – relax – we'll have a host of Team McMillan MINIs transferring you from one exhibition to the next. We call it The Gravity Job. You'll call it handy.

Be impressed by New Zealand photography with the following exhibitions:

- 'BIG works small works' – Bath Street Gallery
- 'Big Little City Light Nights' – Auckland Art Gallery
- 'Leaders' & 'North Shore FX' – City Art Rooms
- 'Robin Morrison' – Centre of Gravity Café
- 'Flicker' – Pearce Gallery
- 'Artificialia, Naturalia & Mirabilia' – Artstation Gallery
- 'All in the Camera by Max Thomson' – Whitespace
- 'International Photography' – Gow Langsford Gallery
- 'As a Hero of Nippon' – Satellite Gallery

Team McMillan MINIs will be transferring up to three passengers at a time from the temporary GRAVITY MINI stops outside each gallery, departing approximately every ten minutes.

And the best bit? It's free. All of it.
