

A look at images of Covid life

While Kiwis stayed home, made sourdough, got vaccinated and took walks, Herald visual journalists documented life as the pandemic unfolded. They juggled their own lockdown challenges of work and family life to capture images of one of the toughest periods in recent history. Now a small showcase of the hundreds of photos taken in the past two years will be exhibited at Silo Park in association with the Auckland Festival of Photography. These images from Michael Craig will be featured alongside other NZME photographers' at Silo 6 in Auckland's Wynyard Quarter from May 30 to June 12.
